ABOUT THE ALLIANCE

The Lake George Battlefield Park Alliance supports activities that help preserve the unique history of this landmark park operated by the State of New York. Exhibits in our new Visitor Center include narratives explaining the history of the Park that spans the habitation of indigenous peoples through two 18th century wars and beyond. Displays also include artifacts from archaeological digs in the Park, models of the two forts that had been built on the grounds, preserved fragments from the 1756 sloop Earl of Loudoun, and a gunport lid from the 1758 radeau Land Tortoise. Paintings and site plans further connect visitors to Park history.

Lake George Battlefield Park was the scene of major battles during the French and Indian War and the American Revolution, and the site of Fort George, a key anchor of British and American military occupation. The following are just a few of the historic events these grounds have witnessed:

- 1755: Battle of Lake George
- 1757: Fort William Henry/ entrenched camp/massacre
- 1759: Fort George construction
- 1775: Fort George seized by Patriots
- 1776: Establishment of Fort George military hospital
- 1777: British occupy Fort George
- 1780: British burn Fort George

In 1898, the State of New York purchased the first portion of what would later become Lake George Battlefield Park.
